Major Joseph Acton Will Deliver Address

Alaskan! A mystic word that, And, oh, how truly named, meaning as it does "The Great Country." And great it really is.

Major Joseph Acton has spent several years in that wonderful land, having travelled thousands of miles over the tempestuous waters that sweep its watery wastes, and then with a mighty roar dashes with all its fury upon its rugged and precipitous coast line.

The Major will show a splendid variety of pictures upon the screen, and will have, with him an excellent display of Indian curios.

To appreciate, one must see the grotesque and wonderfully carved Totems. The knife that has been

Significant Trends

Whether they believe in them or not, and irrespective of the fact whether they are accepted or not, people are deeply interested in the outcome of the various experiments now being tried throughout the world in matters of government, economics and finance. Quite apart from the fact whether or not they are convinced that the old order has, as some contend, broken down beyond all hope of repair and is now definitely and forever passing away, or, on the contrary, still adhere to the view that while changes are taking place, mistakes corrected, abuses eliminated, and improvements made, the old order is essentially sound and will prevail and achieve greater triumphs than ever before, people cannot be indifferent to present day events and the influence which such events are bound to have upon their lives and the lives in which they live.

But, as has been noted and commented on many times, we are a credulous people. Of the American people it was said that they thought prohibition, termed a noble experiment, would end liquor and the saloon, and later that they thought the repeal of prohibition would end the bootlegger. Now, under the N.R.A., the United States has embarked upon another experiment—the business of making rules for business. Rules have been laid down in nearly 500 codes governing 500 industries; and the problem now is how these rules are to be forced. For it has to be recognized that there are many men in every trade who can be counted on to invent devices, as the bootlegger did, for chronic evasion.

As a matter of fact, a small army is now employed across the line in the task of ferreting out evasions and seeking to convict violators of the various N.R.A. codes and thus protect those who are honestly endeavoring to carry out the obligations imposed upon them and their businesses under the New Deal. But notwithstanding all these efforts, a well known authority makes the statement that it is quite safe to say that in the great majority of codes there is no enforcement because any attempt to enforce the rules would lead to abandonment of the code. For this reason there is a strong group in Washington which demands that an immense section of the rules be abandoned. In fact, the proposal is now seriously advanced that codes be applied only to those businesses which are an inter-State business and that they no longer be applied to the smaller concerns whose operations are more local and restricted to the State in which the business is located. This is a most significant development. It indicates that practical recognition of business has its limitations.

Turning to the Canadian picture, it would appear that much the same thought is entertained by people on this side of the line. The recent voting throughout the three prairie provinces on the proposal to establish a compulsory egg and poultry pool is one indication. The scheme was defeated in Manitoba by a three to one vote, and in neither Saskatchewan nor Alberta was the required two-thirds majority obtained, and in Saskatchewan less than one-half of those entitled to vote even took the trouble to return their ballots, thus indicating either opposition or indifference which amounted to opposition in view of the two-thirds vote requirement to carry.

As a result of this voting, it is announced from Ottawa that the compulsory feature will be dropped from all other proposals for the inauguration of schemes under the National Products Marketing Act, and that while efforts will be continued to further develop the idea of co-operation in support of prices and marketing methods, the plan of making any of these schemes compulsory upon an opposing minority has been definitely abandoned. This, too, is significant as indicating that the Canadian people are not ready to accept either the theories or plans of Communism on the one hand or Fascism on the other hand but that they are still firm believers in the ideals and methods of a free democracy.

But, while this revealing a degree of confidence in the existing order and a belief that necessary reforms can be brought about to correct the evils and remove the abuses which have developed like harpies upon it, there can be little doubt but that the minds of the Canadian people are firmly set upon achieving these very necessary reforms and to do so without loss of time. That is to say, the violators of proper, honest business ethics and methods will be brought to book, made to observe and live up to honest and fair-dealing methods, or forced out of business altogether. There is going to be a New Deal, but it will be invoked and enforced by a free democracy.

Preparing to Visit London

Advance Bookings of Cunard White Star Line Indicate Many Will Attend Silver Jubilee

Large numbers of Canadians are preparing to visit London for the King's Silver Jubilee celebrations, commemorating the reign which began on May 6, 1910, and reaches its 25th anniversary on May 6 of this year, the date to be known as Silver Jubilee Day, according to advance bookings for the first Cunard White Star sailings from Montreal. These are on April 26 when the Albatross to Plymouth, Havre and London, and the Andania to Glasgow, Belfast and Liverpool, will open the St. Lawrence season for this line.

These two sailings are sure to be popular because of the fact that tourist and third class passengers using these two sailings will still be able to take advantage of the special round-trip excursion rates of single fare and one-third which allow 15 days' stay in Europe. This rate is only good until April 30.

World's Fastest Camera

Photographs Plane Travelling At 24,000 Miles An Hour

One of the latest wonders of scientific research is a camera capable of photographing plane travelling at 24,000 miles an hour.

The fastest camera in the world, it has just been perfected in London at the Department of Chemical Technology at the Imperial College of Science by Dr. H. Fraser, an inventor, and his assistant, Dr. W. H. Wheeler. It is called the Fraser High Speed Camera No. 5. It costs about $1,000 to build.

By the new knowledge it will give of the behavior of explosion flames the camera may be the means of saving hundreds of lives.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless with Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But a blessing in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again.

"In fact, I could not do my housework, I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands, I could not sleep at night, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I was able to do my housework. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief." (Mrs. J. H. Wright.)

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. The ingredients of this salt, Dr. Nature's expert these dissolved crystals through the natural channel.

Presentation To Scientist

Model Of Buffalo Is Gift Of Winnipeg To Prof. Huxley

A miniature bronze buffalo, modelled after the pair inside the parliament buildings in Winnipeg, was presented to Julian Huxley, distinguished British scientist, at Toronto, as a gift from the people of Winnipeg in appreciation of his lecture tour through the Canadian west.

The presentation was made at the conclusion of Professor Huxley's address. Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, in a brief complimentary speech, recalled that in 1853, when a department of natural sciences was being formed at the Toronto University, an application for a professorship was received from Thomas Huxley, grandfather of the lecturer, and one of the greatest scientists of the 19th century.

The application was not accepted. But the reason for the rejection was not clear.

FROM GIRL TO WOMAN

Mrs. N. V. V. of 47 North St., Winnipeg, Ont., said: "When I was growing into womanhood, I suffered terrible pain in my back, and I was unable to do any work. I was told to take Dr. Pierce's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and after a few weeks, I was able to do my work. I am now a woman, and I am very happy." (Mrs. N. V. V. of 47 North St., Winnipeg, Ont.)

"I suppose one dresses for dinner here?" the new guest asked the small town hotel keeper. "Well, suit yourself, sir. But I might add that we charge extra for meals served in bed."

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

China's Food Problems

Little Arable Land Now Being Cultivated

Although China's population has increased by 31 per cent. during the last 60 years, despite famines, floods and civil wars, the area of land actually being farmed neither increased nor decreased during these six decades, according to findings given by the national agriculture research bureau at Nanking.

The official report declares "to optimize" the belief China's food resources and over-population problems can be even partially solved by reclaiming land now not used, or by directing settlement to the open spaces of the great northwest. The survey confirms there is little arable land in China now being cultivated, and classifies the waste places of the northwest as largely untold for farming.

Wards Of The Government

Bill Introduced In Ontario Legislature For Protection Of Quintuplets

With the aim of making the Dionne quintuplets "special wards of His Majesty the King, as represented by the minister of public welfare of Ontario," Hon. David A. Croft, minister of welfare and municipal affairs, introduced a bill in the Ontario legislature regarding the famous babies of Callander, Ont.

By the bill, cabinet is empowered to appoint a board of guardians with authority over the finances, education and physical well-being of the children. These "active guardians" will share authority with the father, Olive Dionne, the "natural guardian," and Dr. Allan Roy Dallas, whether or not the physician is appointed as a guardian, Mr. Croft said.

Moving Mountain Of Sand

Millions Of Tons Is Burying Forest In Australia.

A moving mountain of sand at Cronulla, Australia, has buried a small forest as it slowly advances. Trees 30 to 40 feet high have disappeared beneath the millions of tons of sand. Meanwhile, the sea is eating into land on the ocean side of the mountain, and every time there is a heavy storm part of a 250-acre government recreation area slips into the Pacific.

Canadian Aviation

Importance Of Canada As Link In World Air Highways

The importance of Canada as a main link in future world air highways was stressed by Hon. Groie Strating, minister of national defence, at Montreal, in addressing the annual banquet which closed the two-day convention of the Canadian Flying Club Association.

With the future of Canadian aviation in mind, the government looked to the C.F.C.A. to take a leading part. The minister regretted his inability to promise the association further assistance at the present time due to the state of national finances.

He trusted the opportunity would soon be forthcoming when he could get justified in putting forward proposals to the cabinet that would enable the government, if they accepted his advice, to provide the assistance the association hoped for.

"A distinct relationship exists between the department of national defence and the Flying Clubs Association," he said. The one-line expected clash of interests between the non-permanent flying forces and the flying clubs had never happened. It had been shown the clubs provided the very important task of training young men wishing to gain their commissions in the military aviation service.

Life Saving Medals

Officers Of Cunard White Star Line Receive Recognition

Herbert L. Satterlee, president of the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York, planned gold medals on Capt. J. G. P. Bisset, R.D., R.N.R., and Lieut. Pollitt of the Cunard White Star liner Acania, for the part they played in rescuing the captain and eight of the crew of the SS. Usworth in mid-Atlantic on Dec. 14. To the members of the boat crew which performed the rescue Mr. Satterlee presented $100 to each in cash in addition to a bronze medal. The presentation was made on the deck of the Acania.

Baseball Series

All Tied Up

An interested group attended the stiff baseball game between the Young People's team and that of the married folks.

A succession of hard balls came to the Younger team on their first time up to bat which resulted in no one getting home. The older team had the other extreme and a series of very soft balls gave them quite a lead at the close of the first inning. However the spirit of the Young People remained undaunted and as the evening wore on they gradually gained more of an equal rating with their elders.

Due to the late hour the game was discontinued before the regular 7th inning was reached with the score in the married folks favor being 20-20.

But please do not forget that the preceding game was claimed by the Young People and they seem confident that it will be so again. So if you wish to see some real excitement don't miss the resulting game which will decide the leading Bible heads of the Brethren Congregation.

It promises to be a very tense and extremely exciting. The groups will appreciate your cheering and the elder team will certainly need your sympathy and encouragement. The date of this deciding game of the first contest will be announced later and should not be missed by any member of the family.

A Revolutionary Development in Electric Lighting

London, Eng., March 19th—The present system of lighting with bulbs, wall brackets and hanging centre fixtures is now old-fashioned.

At least, this is the claim of A. F. Chapman, prominent English engineer, whose newest lighting development has been installed in many of England's finest hotels, department stores and homes.

A revolutionary development, tubes from one to four feet in length, glowing with an even shadowless light, replace the bulbs that up to the present time have been standard equipment in homes all over the world.

"The tube system of lighting came from experiments which I was making with Neon lighting," Mr. Chapman said in a recent interview. "In the first instance I had not planned to use electricity, feeling that the effect I desired could be achieved with Neon. But as I experimented I found it an impossibility to control a certain flicker. It was then that I turned to electricity."

Months of experimenting followed, until finally Mr. Chapman was able to announce that he had perfected his invention. It meant that he had succeeded in banishing dark corners from the home and in evolving a lighting system that gave adequate light no matter where occupant was.

"It's an age of reform," Mr. Chapman said. "We've had reform in the lines of automobiles, in the construction of aeroplanes and even the trains have been reformed so that they are now streamlined. What more natural than that the public should welcome this reform in lighting methods."

The effect of the new lighting system is in keeping with modern design in building and home furnishings, Mr. Chapman explained.

"Tubes are not necessarily straight," Mr. Chapman said. "They may be circular, V-shaped or any style that the architect desires, to make the lighting harmonize with the general design of the home. Interior decorators have found them a means of expressing their ideas, for present wiring can be adapted to their use. In addition it is possible to use any one of eight harmonizing colors in the lighting scheme."

Adopted by leaders in the shipping industry, the new de luxe liners Queen Mary and Normandie have been equipped with the tube lamps. So also, are many of the newer English trains.

"The Maison Lyons Corner House at Marble Arch, was one of the first to install the tube style of lighting," Mr. Chapman said. "Here tubes are installed in series all around the room and cornices. In the Fortnum and Mason decorating department circular tubes as central figures have been used with an unusually attractive effect. Particularly good-looking is the lighting plan used by the Strand Palace Hotel in its redecorated Main Winter Garden. Here stepped glass tubes alternate with metal reflectors giving the effect of rich black and white blocks in series around the whole room. In the Cumberland Hotel the cocktail bar has been fitted with this new system of lighting, while attractive chandeliers have been designed for Grosvenor House, Park Lane.

Mr. Chapman also explained some of the advantages of this style of lighting. First, is the fact that the tubes can be made to harmonize with any style of decoration or architecture. Then, in the matter of lighting they cast an even light to all parts of the room. Dark corners are eliminated and consumption of the lamps themselves is low.

Life of the present lamps in common use today, Mr. Chapman explained is approximately 1,000 burning hours. The new tube lamps, he said, will last from three to five thousand hours of continuous burning.

Center-Poise Riding in a

Passengers Located Close to Center of Car

Three major engineering principles combine to give to the new Ford V-8 for 1935 what Ford engineers term the "centre-poise" ride, according to Larsen Implements, local Ford dealers.

These principles are: Correct spring suspension, involving equality of front and rear spring flexibility. Proper car weight balance and passenger weight distribution.

Location of passengers close to centre of the car. Utilization of these in combination as practised by Ford engineers, achieves for the new Ford V-8 remarkable improvement in riding comfort without sacrifice of either safety or stability.
